Another feature of the bill is the complicated bookkeep-

Then a packer buys a pig he engages it into acres of prod-

Big railroad combinations are good for everybody.
The Pennsylvania, having swallowed Mr. Lorner's railroad, has giving him a profit of about $25, 000,000, will now establish a direct line from New York to Detroit.
It is probable, also, that Gen.
Atterbury, head of the Pennsylv-vania system, will, before long, run flying machines from New York to Detroit, and a combination rail and airline from the Atlantic to the Pacific.
Big combinations make big enterprises possible, and the law should encourage them.
The best thing could be one great system for the whole country—like the postoffice system—the almost railroad men running it, with the people as owners.
But since it is agreed that the Government lacks the honesty and ability that makes government-ownership successful in other countries, big mergers are next best.
If the people are not intelligent enough to watch a few big companies they would not be able to watch a lot of little concerns.
Wall Street bets six to five one that Dave will not be nom-

Wall Street is supposed to oppose Hoover's nomination, but disapproval lacks the honest
and ability that makes government-ownership successful in other countries, big mergers are
next best.
At Smith would be better than ten to one for the Democratic nomination, but no one wants to bet against him. His friends believe he will be nominated on the first ballot.

BUDGET IN TROUBLE

Veheement protest from the citizens commission today prevented Mayor Nichols' $41,000,000 budget from the City Council chamber at City Hall.
Calling the proposals wild waste and in one instance "monstrous" the commission urged the councilmen to reject the budget. The proposed for various officials attached to the council and to defend the proposed expenditure of $200, new constables and two assistant election commissioners.
Both the mayor and the appropriation committee of the council

BREMEN CREW GREETED BY CHEERING MILLIONS
IN NEW YORK PARADE

New York, April 30—Two million people roared their acclaim today to the two daring Germans, Baron Gunther von Huenefeld and Capt.
Herman Kox, and the fearless Irishman, Maj.
James C. Fitzmaurice, who piloted the monoplane Bremen from Europe to the North American Continent, the first time that epic feat had been accomplished.
Thrilled by the sight of these brave men, the people of New York unleashed a riot of noise that rolled in great waves over the city and put across the harbor.
Great throngs blackened the sidewalks and streets for miles and cheered themselves hoarse; thousands of others stood on vessels in the harbor and added their mite to the din, as bands played, whistles blew and sirens sounded.
The fliers themselves were amazed at the magnitude of the reception. They seemed abashed, almost ill at ease. They bowed and bowed as they rode in triumph with an escort of 10,000 marching troops.

OVATION, LIKE LINDY'S TRIBUTE, PAID BREMEN FLIERS

Another Irish rose won fame when Rose McShane became probably the best-known chambermaid in the world because the camera caught her just at the moment she congratulated Maj. Fitzmaurice at the Ritz-Carlton on his daring triumph of the North Atlantic. It was her first opportunity at hero worship and she seized it.

This photo shows Mr. Whalen, head of Mayor Walker's welcoming committee, and two of the famous fliers kneeling in St. Patrick's Cathedral, New York, where they attended mass. They have not forgotten to thank Divine Providence for their marvelous triumph.

Sky heroes stood out boldly against the most famous skyline in the world when the three musketeers of the Bremen linked arms on the roof of the Ritz-Carlton, where they are stopping in New York. The figures of Baron Von Huenefeld, Maj. Fitzmaurice and Capt. Koehl were cut in bold silhouette against the tower-pierced blue.

Photo shows Baron von Huenefeld reading his prayer book at St. Peter's Lutheran Church, where he attended services and heard a sermon preached on the Bremen's achievement.

MAJ. FITZMAURICE "DUKE" SCHILLER BARON VON HUENEFELD CAPT. KOEHL
Photo shows the three transatlantic fliers and "Duke" Schiller, one of the aviators who went to their rescue in the bleak North, having breakfast this morning at the Ritz-Carlton, New York, just before they set forth to receive the greatest welcome ever accorded them. New York has gone quite wild over the adventures of the air, and it was estimated that 2,000,000 persons cheered them. They are to come to Boston to receive New England's welcome to America.

BOSTON, MONDAY, APRIL 30, 1928

Now that the Baron has brought the monocle back into favor, you may see the single eyepiece become as popular as is "Honey Fitz." And speaking of him—at the wedding of his son, John F. Fitzgerald, Jr., monocles were in evidence, as the photographer recorded in pictures. There was the police "super," Michael H. Crowley. There was also Miss Mary Reed, of Milton, a bridesmaid. The hero of "Sweet Adeline," himself, also. And Miss Rosalie Miller of Cambridge, another bridesmaid. Each wore a monocle. They're the thing, now, those monocles, since Baron Ehrenfried Gunther von Huenefeld started the fashion.

Just as they had done with Lindy, the children took the baron and his comrades unto themselves as heroes for juvenile worship. The baron is pictured in a crowd of his youthful admirers, who fairly idolized him. They fairly pumped questions at him, too. So insistent were they that the baron just had to give a little talk about his trip.

'Flappers' Flip a Flop and Land Behind Bars

Dressed in "flapper" clothes, two youths in Dedham court today told the story of a bout that went wrong and cost them $1 each on charges of disturbing the peace.

Another, attired in men's clothing, was fined the same by Judge Barbours.

Frank L. Burnham, Jr. of Middleboro, who said he was a female impersonator, told the court he and John M. Lynch of Harvard st., Boston, danced the flapper and went for a ride with Miss M. Seidman of Clarence st., Roxbury, and a motorist whose name was not revealed.

When the hoax was discovered, he said, the motorist ordered them from the car at a point beyond Weymouth. Walking back through the town they were halted by police and booked when they told the judge.

Stridently bearded men, their appearance as they appeared to dance, contrasting with the opera dress, chiffon dresses, earrings, neckties that framed their raiment as they stood in the dock.

None of the three was to pay and they were taken to Dedham jail.

Providence, R. I., April 30 (AP)—Expert yeomen working in broad daylight, the police believe, blew the door of a safe in the Novartis-Rothman jewelry plant here and stole $20,000 worth of gold and precious stones.

The explosive used shattered the door of the safe, which is six feet high, but no one has been found who heard the blast.

Athens, April 30 (AP)—Continued earthquake shocks were felt on the isthmus of Corinth today and soon the injured were being brought into Corinth, where relief operations have been established.

SAFE IN SHOPS IN TEXTILE MILLS

"Focus on the man behind the wheel and you have the solution of the highway safety problem," Dr. Charles H. Rust of Worcester told members of the Massachusetts Safety Council today at the seventh annual conference at Hotel Statler.

Speaking in the interests of industrial and highway safety he said that 90 per cent are careless and could be avoided.

"Accidents are determined by the man behind the steering wheel," he said. "We must get at those who prove careless."

"Those involved in accidents may be divided as the drinker, the sick man, the dissipated, the ignorant person, one who is tired out and the chance taker. There is another, I might describe as the 'yes-but-er' man who simply cannot understand the idea of safety. It is up to us to get at the man in this last category."

Safety campaigns, together with mechanical prevention, have made the textile industry the safest major industry in the United States, Rust said. Fisher, secretary of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers, told the conference.

Accident prevention as it affects the textile industry was the subject of discussion at today's session, while highway safety will be the topic tomorrow.

Mayor Joseph P. McKim, Jr. opened the conference.

"No one likes to see a man crippled or injured in any way, and safety work has a real appeal," said Secretary Fisher.

"The textile industry, therefore, is proud of its record of only 31.4 accidents per 1,000 workers, and only nine deaths per 100,000 employees in 1926."

PERIL OF INFECTION

"Many mills have opened shops for this year two and three consecutive months without a single loss-time accident. Analysis shows that 34 per cent of all accidents in cotton mills are due to mechanical causes, 65 per cent, to non-mechanical causes. More than half of the non-mechanical accidents are due to falls and mishaps in the handling of material."

"Infection is one of the most troublesome of the handling materials accidents. It seems to be human nature to ignore small cuts, scratches or bruises. The employee may have a small bruise cut or scratch. If it does not trouble him at the time, he forgets it. The next day it may be infected and the trouble has started."

"Production depends on the human element, in the last analysis," declared David S. McLean, supervising engineer of the Travelers Insurance Company, speaking on accident prevention in its relation to good business.

Today's sessions were in charge of Brig. Gen. E. Leroy Sweetser and Col. F. B. Payne of Greenfield, president of the Associated Industries of Massachusetts and a director of the Massachusetts Safety Council.

Atwell of the department said today the board would hand down an order which may keep the case technically before the department.

STEFANSSON IN HUB, PRAISES WILKINS

Paying high tribute to Capt. Wilkins, who recently completed a flight over the Arctic, Vilhjalmur Stefansson, explorer, today told of the possibilities of the North with the advent of "winter flights" in the interest of science.

Stefansson arrived at the Orpheum Plaza today, where he is to lecture tonight before the Boston Children's Society on "The Northwest Coast from Europe."

"The Arctic circle is a field for exploration," he said. "It holds as many opportunities for women as men, especially in school work."

"The cold impression frozen north has done much to retard the uncovering of its possibilities than anything I know. It is as uninteresting as the old burning south."

"Capt. Wilkins proved that forced landings can be made on ice at every five miles. In this way danger is at a minimum and the exploration may go on in the opening of new fields of endeavor to the world."

"Just now it is in the frontier stage, which makes one long for the old days when people flocked at the mention of frontier in contrast to the tendency now to remain in the comfort of the city."

N.E. COUNCIL TO GIVE RESEARCH ITS JUST DUE

Asserting that research is responsible for the tremendous growth and prosperity of many of America's largest industrial enterprises, President John B. Lawrence of the New England Council today announced the program for the first research-in-factury conference ever held in New England.

The conference will take place Thursday under the auspices of the research committee of the council of which A. Lincoln Fiene is chairman.

Research is nothing more than accurate fact-finding and in this era of industrial change the determination of the facts as to public demand, and the processes and methods of producing what is commercially salable, are absolutely essential to profitable operation," said Mr. Lawrence.

President C. F. Kettering of the General Motors Research Corporation, one of the country's greatest research experts, will speak following a dinner at M. T. T. Thursday evening. Mr. Fiene will speak on "Research and New England Prosperity" at a luncheon session.

Find Mummies of 100 Supposed Victims of Spanish Torture

Chihuahua, Mexico, April 30 (AP)—A theory that 100 persons had been tortured and buried alive, possibly during the days of the Spanish conquest, was advanced today as an explanation of mummified bodies discovered in a mountain cave near San Juan Nepesque.

The mummies of the face of one body were sharply contorted, indicating intense suffering preceded death. The bodies of the women and children showed their hands had been bound together with strings about their thumbs.

Two young youngsters who were hunted for will honey stumbled upon the mummies and notified the authorities.

the ground floor occupied by the Postmaster Lerner and Lina's Sea Grill.

The fire occurred before most of the employees arrived for work, but the thick, black smoke, swept toward the beach, held by the wind, drove many guests into the corridors or "stalls" near to telephones, created inquiries to the clerk until word was spread that there was no danger to that building.

Because of the dense smoke firemen resorted to gas masks. Fire lines were stretched for a long distance along Front st. and even foot traffic had to be diverted.

Banker, baker, or society woman—every one of us, no matter who we are, may offend unless we use

Frank facts... about body odor!

How this purifying toilet soap prevents odor

HOW offended we always are when we detect body odor in others. Respect, friendship, love—all wither before this grave offense.

Yet we are all subject to body odor. We do it if we don't perspire. Even on cool days—our pores give off invisible perspiration—often as much as a quart of water each 24 hours.

This body miasma, whether you see it or not, is odorous. And it puts to flight. Bank president or laborer—society leader or servant—all may offend unless they take precautions.

Easy to keep safe

Unfortunately, we cannot tell when our bodies are guilty of body odor. For, once an odor becomes familiar to us, our own sense of smell becomes desensitized to it.

Yet there's no need to risk offending. Just wash and bathe often with the delightful toilet soap that millions enjoy—Lifibuo—Lendolene.

The same mild and abundant antiseptic action that helps protect health by removing germs—prevents body odor by purifying pores. Nose, too, how clear and fresh Lifibuo keeps complexion.

A hygienic scent millions love

You will learn to love Lifibuo's pleasant odor, which tells you Lifibuo purifies, yet which quickly evaporates after rinsing.

Use Lifibuo a week and you'll see it for life. Get some today.

Blindfolded...in scientific test of leading Cigarettes, Mrs. Emily Post selects OLD GOLD

"Personally, I have never acquired a taste for tobacco. For most cigarettes seem to burn my tongue and sting my throat. The only time I ever smoke, therefore, is in courtesy to someone coming to my house, who would lay her accustomed cigarette aside unless I at least lit one, too."

"It seemed absurd, at first, that I should be chosen to attempt this blindfold test... except that never having become a smoker, my taste is extremely sensitive to the burning harshness of the average cigarette."

"But I was very much surprised to find that I had chosen OLD GOLD as being perceptibly smooth, stinging and pleasant to taste. In fact, I now quite easily understand why the OLD GOLD compartment in my general cigarette box must be so constantly refilled."

Cocktails of Fruit

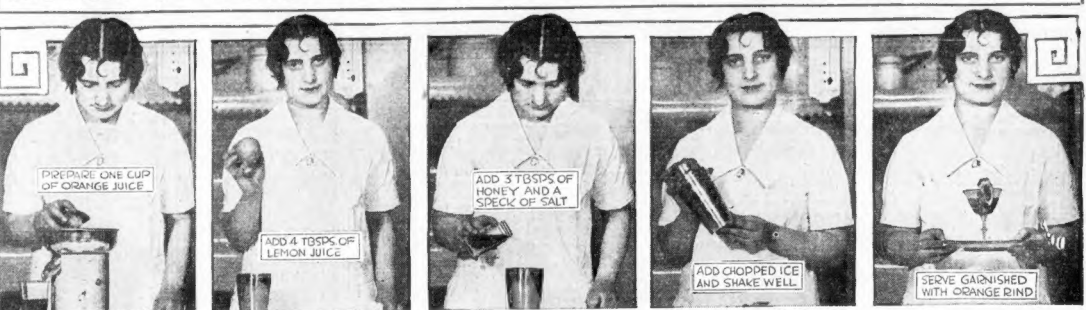

This is the season of home entertaining—this time when we try to square up our social obligations before the summer months overtake us. One of our problems is how to entertain attractively with the least amount of effort and expense.

The accessories of the company dinner or luncheon are all important and make it unnecessary to have heavy or expensive main dishes.

A fruit cocktail or a champagne soup superfluous unless you wish it. The table decoration and such adjuncts as rugs, ginger and white, carry their share of the burden. Oranges and lemons are invaluable in any form of entertaining because of their flavor and appearance.

The fruit itself is used in many of the foods and refreshments, while the skins appear as a flavoring in soups, salad dressings and frost-

Emil Jannings Has "It" by Authority of Elinor Glyn

Los Angeles, April 29 (INS)—He is not handsome, not young, not romantic. But he has "it."

And no less an authority than Elinor Glyn, who invented and popularized the short but significant term, has so decreed.

Asked to choose a male screen player upon whose shoulders the flattering appellation could most fittingly rest, Miss Glyn without hesitating named Emil Jannings, the famous German character actor.

"He has neither youth, nor good looks," Miss Glyn explained, "and yet 'it' glazes his eyes in every scene."

As the director of the picture, Miss Glyn said, she was very much interested in the actor's performance.

"LITTLE SINS" By KATHARINE BRUSH

A Story of Gay Life at Harvard; a Battle of Hearts Between Girls

The Boston Evening American begins today the publication of "Little Sins," by Katharine Brush. It is a remarkable story of gay life at Harvard—a battle of hearts between a rich girl and a poor girl. It is one of the remarkable serials of the year.

CHAPTER I

THE spotlight was a great white eye. It was a Cyclopean eye, set in the high brow of a balcony. Sometimes it was a naked eye. Sometimes it donned a monocle of green or of red or of purple. Always it moved, restlessly, endlessly, sweeping over the walls of the Copley-Place ballroom, flashing on the horns of the two jazz bands stabbing with brilliance the aere of floor where danced the young men of Harvard and the young men of Yale and the slim, shapely, bobbed-haired loves of both.

Tomorrow, Yale and Harvard were to play football in the stadium by the Charles. Tomorrow these same young men would sit on opposite sides of a great concrete horseshoe and yell increasingly raucous, increasingly rude epithets toward one another. But tonight they were friends. They clasped hands. They amiably laid bets at five to four. They snapped partners and flasks and barometerical predictions; they borrowed and lent and smoked the cigarette of peace.

There is no dance in the campus every night like this dordant affair. It is a democratic and confused affair, livelier than a fraternity hop, less dignified than a prom. It is not a Simon-pure college, for anyone with a dinner coat and tie and a ticket can gain admission; but it is a madly catholic.

Other northeastern educational institutions send delegates unofficially. M. L. T. is represented by a number of gentlemen striving to look supercilious—for M. L. T. is everyone knows, has a soul above variety, football, has put away childish things. Boston University and Tufts contribute earnestly. Dartmouth is down from Hanover in the person of half a dozen of its more irrepressible scholars who had a row of a party the week end of the Dartmouth-Harvard game and home to report.

Andover and Exeter are present.

GOODWIN FIGHTS FOR OUSTER EMPLOYEE

CHARGE ZIONIST HEADS WITH CORRUPTION

Washington, April 30 (AP)—Charging directors of the American Zionist movement with maladministration, inefficiency and diversion of funds, 150 Zionists from 45 cities adopted a resolution demanding a shakeup of the existing regime.

This demand will be presented at the forthcoming convention of the American Zionist movement.

Speakers at the conference, called especially to discuss protests against the conduct of the directors of the American committee to assist in establishing a Jewish homeland in Palestine, specially accused the Zionist leaders with mismanagement of the American Zion Commonwealth and the Palestine Corporation, organizations formed to interest private capital in the building of Palestine.

They also accused the directors of extravagance in the administration of American affairs, of diverting funds raised for the Palestine work for American propaganda activities and of bringing about a loss of confidence on the part of the American Zionists in the American organization.

The plan for a sweeping reorganization of the American body were made by Morris A. Zeid, Brooklyn, N. Y., and Lawrence Rosen and Samuel J. Rosenberg, both of New York City. Judge Julian W. Mack of New York presided at the meeting.

Herscovici said the present organization is facing a deficit of $175,000 and that the membership is declining rapidly, now only 20,000 compared with 100,000 in 1920. He described the present administration as a "political machine to keep in the pockets of the leaders and their friends."

FUNERAL RITES HELD FOR GEORGE B. EMMONS

The case will be called in Worcester Superior court for trial this week. Miss Hunt's home is at Auburn, N. Y.

EX-REGISTRAR PLEDGES WAR ON HIGHER-UPS

Springfield, April 30 (AP)—James A. O'Neil, steward at the State Hospital for the Insane at Taunton for four years, has been dismissed by the trustees on charges that he used terms "unbecomingly loyal to the institution and to his superiors" at a meeting of the Commonwealth Service Association here.

Frank A. Gooden, donated $100 of the meeting on the night of April 27.

Information concerning the dismissal was received here and a local editor, along with the remainder of Gooden that "because Gooden got away with this" and the warning that an "expulsion" was in the air, he believed that the issue would be carried to the courts as a "test case" if no satisfaction can be obtained otherwise. He attended his last day of work here on April 27.

It also was learned that the Commonwealth Service Association, made up of State employees, had engaged Attorney Edward McDevitt of Taunton to represent O'Neil at a hearing which has been asked. O'Neil is still living with his family on the hospital grounds.

There's too much real quality in the product for that. BUT . . . Every can that goes out of my store makes a real friend for me . . . and friends come back to buy again.
